

2016 Annual Report

Seeking to preserve, protect and enhance land in perpetuity for the public benefit.

Chair's Report

If you are an observant reader you may have noticed a new symbol on publications of the Licking Land Trust. This is the Accreditation Seal—a mark of distinction awarded to land trusts that have met the national standards of the Land Trust Accreditation Commission. After many years of planning and work, we earned this seal in 2016.

The Seal comes with words of honor. It means that our organization has demonstrated sound finances, strong transactions, excellent stewardship and effective governance. But the Seal also comes with responsibility, and as I look at it again I am reminded that it depicts the symbol of infinity. We protect land in perpetuity, and perpetuity is a long time.

The Licking Land Trust took some important steps toward perpetuity in 2016. The most noticeable change is that we have a new home. Having outgrown our office on South Main in Granville, we have moved to a larger space on the second floor of the Art Center on the grounds of the Bryn Du mansion. This will be a fantastic location for our organization, and we hope that other nonprofit organizations will join us in making use of the wonderful Bryn Du facilities. We'd be proud to show you around—just give us a call and we'll arrange a time!

We held the second annual Farm to Fork celebration in 2016. This event is so popular and so much fun that we have already planned it for 2017 (mark your calendar for August 18!). Farm to Fork engenders such an amazing outpouring of generosity and good will from people who love this community and love this land. It is one of the highlights of our year, along with our annual banquet, which hosted Heather Taylor-Miesle in 2016. Heather is the director of the Ohio Environmental Council and a real supporter of land conservation efforts. We are lucky to have her working for such an important cause.

Stewarding the land that we protect is part of our mission, and in 2016 we took on a major management project. The Fryman Reserve, generously donated to the Trust by Dick and Ann Fryman in 2005, is valued by the Licking County Auditor as agricultural land. In order to maintain this beneficial status we conducted a limited, selective tree harvest at the end of last summer in accordance with our forestry management plan for this property. The proceeds from this harvest have gone right back into our efforts to conserve and protect greenspace in our region.

Finally, we made excellent progress toward meeting our financial goals last year, in part because of the generosity of a member who left a bequest to the Trust. This is the second time that a bequest has made a truly significant and inspiring difference for this organization. We are grateful for the support.

Stories like these make me think that perpetuity will not be so hard to achieve. When you are surrounded by people who care about one another and care for the place they live, planning for the distant future is as much a pleasure as it is a duty. With your help we will get to perpetuity—one day at a time.

Education & Outreach

In 2016 the Trust continued to promote land conservation and education in a number of interesting ways. The highlight of the year was again our annual (now second) Farm to Fork Dinner held in August at the Granville Inn. Excellent conversation, wonderful local foods, and an interesting array of silent auction items highlighted an evening that entertained over 100 guests. In total the event not only served as an excellent promotional opportunity for the Trust, it raised more than $8000 in support of the Trust's activities.

A second highlight event for the year took place in mid-September, when Trust-protected property owner Kalya Hughes hosted professional stock dog trainer Michael McNutt. The event, co-sponsored by the Trust, Licking County Soil and Water, and the Licking County Farm Bureau, celebrated the fifteenth anniversary of the protected land in Licking County. Some fifty people watched Mr. McNutt artfully manage his border collies through whistle and growl as they herded sheep across the picturesque hill side of the Stair-Hughes Farm.

The Trust continued to support a number of local outreach activities in promoting our educational mission this year, including a continued presence at the Dawes Arboretum Arbor Day Festival. The 2nd Annual Granville "Turn Your Screen Off Week", a national effort dedicated to getting children outdoors, saw the Trust's Board Chair Doug Spieles lead a hike through the Spring Valley Nature Preserve.

The Trust continued to widely distribute its self-published annual report and spring and fall newsletters. Over 500 copies of each were distributed to Trust members and Licking County public officials and made available at local public libraries.

The Trust continues to have a significant online e-presence, averaging more than 200 unique visitors per month. This element of our public presence has grown consistently since the launch of the website in 2009.

In total the outreach and education activities of the Trust have reached thousands of individuals, both informing those already interested in the mission about the nuances of preservation and growing the ranks of persons taking a new interest in the land preservation movement.

Stewardship & Prospective Properties

The Licking Land Trust saw another busy year of stewardship activity in 2016. In addition to visiting all 23 Licking Land Trust protected properties, we conducted our first ever selective timber harvest at the Fryman Woods property we own on Goose Lane in Granville.

In 2005, Dick and Ann Fryman donated their scenic 36.6-acre forested property with lush woodland and watershed areas to the Trust to preserve and protect forever. At that time, and currently, the land was, and is, taxed under the State of Ohio's Current Agriculture Use Value classification (CAUV), which means that the land must be working land providing income to the owner. Some 15 years ago, this wooded property was timbered through a selective timber harvest.

Careful and selective timbering on the Fryman Reserve allowed the property to retain its CAUV status.

Since the Trust acquired the property and consistent with that CAUV classification, the Trust has maintained and updated a Forestry Management Plan in effect for Fryman Woods which calls for a timber harvest every 10 to 15 years. After much discussion, the Board determined that another timber harvest was not only appropriate, but also in line with the original intent of the gift of the property.

In October, the Trust conducted a limited and selective timber harvest, overseen by a number of Board members. In the coming years, we will be focused on active stewardship in Fryman Woods to ensure that invasive species are controlled and that the forest remains healthy and vibrant.

We are looking forward to 2017 and new opportunities to conserve land in and around the county.

Having achieved accreditation status at the beginning of 2016, the Accreditation Committee took a well-deserved hiatus in 2016. The Land Trust Alliance, the national land preservation organization the Trust follows, has been revising its Standards and Practices while at the same time the Land Trust Accreditation Commission has been reworking its review process. Once these national standards and processes are final, the Accreditation Committee will review and update the Trust's policies and procedures over the next several years in preparation for renewal of our accreditation.

Membership & Donor Development

Friends of land conservation continued their enthusiastic support of the Trust's mission and activities in 2016, joining for the first time or renewing memberships, providing donations and gifts, and participating in the Trust's activities and fundraising initiatives. The 2016 membership total of 434 was one of the five highest levels in the 25-year history of the Trust. Annual attrition of membership was low at about 10 percent; by comparison, the annual attrition of members in nonprofits is often 50-75 percent or even higher. This low attrition rate puts the Licking Land Trust in excellent shape!

The Trust, with strong donor and member support, continued its fundraising work to sustain its general operations and to complete the funding of its Stewardship Fund by the end of 2020, as required by national accreditation standards of the Land Trust Alliance. "Farm to Fork," the Trust's second annual local-foods tasting and silent auction, held in August at the Granville Inn, was highly successful, attended by almost 100 members and friends, and enjoying the support of 17 financial sponsors, 5 in-kind donors, and 50 silent auction donors. The event netted $8,327 for the Trust.

Community outreach is a continuing effort to introduce Licking County citizens and organizations to the Trust and its initiatives. The Trust continues to offer a slideshow program that Board members are happy to present to interested groups. All interested persons or organizations are urged to contact the Trust if they would like to arrange for a general program about the Trust or for a landowner seminar.

Financial Report

The financial condition of the Licking Land Trust was significantly strengthened in 2016, with total cash and investments growing substantially due to two one-time events: the CAUV required timbering of the Trust-owned Fryman tract, and a generous bequest made to the Trust by a late member. In addition, the Trust's investments continued to perform well, and the organization's fundraising event, Farm-to-Fork, was a success for a second year. The Trust continues to have no debt.

As of December 31, 2016, total assets were $572,088, of which $326,249 comprised cash, Vanguard mutual funds, and the organization's Board-Advised Fund, a trust account managed by Park National Bank. The remaining $245,839 total asset balance represented the value of land and easements owned, as well as other miscellaneous assets as shown on the balance sheet.

During 2016, total cash received by the Trust was $126,037. This total included membership dues of $22,460, other donations of $46,725, timbering proceeds of $38,419, Farm-to-Fork fundraising gross revenues of $10,976, and investment earnings of $7,457.

Total cash disbursed during 2016 was $33,906, which included operating expense of $24,491. Costs in 2016 of the Fryman timbering project were $5,300, and other stewardship expenses were $540. Farm-to-Fork event expense totaled $2,649, and investment management fees were $926.

The Trust's total cash and securities of $326,249, as of December 31, 2016, were held in the following accounts: Legal Defense Fund (savings and Vanguard investment account), $69,049; Stewardship Fund (savings and Vanguard investment account), $81,015; Donations and Bequests (savings and Vanguard investment account), $74,385; Board-Advised Fund (Park National Bank trust fund), $82,306; Don Wiper Memorial Fund, $2,230; Farm-to-Fork savings account, $500; and operating accounts, $16,764.

The Licking Land Trust's financial statements are reviewed by the Board's Finance Committee as well as by the full Board at each board meeting, along with financial transactions and any concerns or decisions needed. Dues and donations, operating funds, investment accounts, and all expenses are reviewed, as well as the operating budget and its status year-to-date.
